Shoulder injury sidelines Nuge for the season

NHL. Young gun followed his impressive rookie campaign with just 4 goals, 20 assists in 40 games this year

Edmonton Oilers forward Ryan Nugent-Hopkins will miss the remainder of the season due to a shoulder injury, the club announced on Sunday.

The team said on its Twitter account that Nugent-Hopkins is flying to Cleveland to have his shoulder examined and that surgery is likely.

After an impressive rookie campaign, Nugent-Hopkins' numbers were slightly down this year with just four goals and 20 assists in 40 games. He had 18 goals and 34 assists in 64 games in his first season after being picked first overall by Edmonton.

"It's something I've got to look into and take of," said Nugent-Hopkins. "It's something that's been nagging at me for a couple years.

"It got a little bit worse and it's something that has to be taken care of eventually. We all decided it was time."

His left shoulder has been a reoccurring problem for the centre. He missed 20 games last season because of it and then had to leave the Oilers' AHL affiliate last December to do some strengthening and conditioning on the shoulder before playing for Canada at the world junior championship.

"The plan was to get (the surgery) done before the season ends, so I'm recovered and good to go before next season," he said.

The Oilers, who will miss the post-season for the seventh straight year, have four games remaining.

Week 2. Councillors hoping to hold on to their seats

In the second instalment of Metro's city council candidate roundup, we look at the incumbents who will be running to retain their seats this fall.

Coun. Linda Sloan will seek her fourth term in Ward 1. The former nurse and provincial MLA is also president of the Alberta Urban Municipalities Association.

Coun. Dave Loken has announced his plans to run in Ward 3. Loken is just finishing his first term as councillor for the area.

Coun. Ed Gibbons will attempt to make it five terms in Ward 4. The council veteran has announced he will also seek to hold on to his seat in October.

Coun. Tony Caterina will run for a third term in Ward 7. The former businessman was first elected in 2007 and held on to his seat in 2010.

Coun. Ben Henderson will try to make it three terms on council with his run in Ward 8. Henderson has represented the area just south of the North Saskatchewan River since 2007.

Coun. Bryan Anderson will attempt his sixth term in office with a run this fall in Ward 9. Anderson has been on council since 1998. Before that, he was a teacher and high-school basketball and football coach.

One year later: Redford's amazing self-reinvention

April 23, 2012. A look back at the premier's sometimes tumultuous first year in office

One year after Alison Redford won her first popular mandate, the Alberta premier remembers not only voting day, but also the uneasy feeling just before she dropped the writ.

It was last March 26. Redford stood in her cabinet meeting room and realized she might not see it again.

The Wildrose party was surging in popularity and Peter Watson — the government's senior civil servant — had parting words for his boss.

"He said to me, 'Premier, I want you to know that we're now preparing transition binders (in case a new political party formed the government). I don't want to have to tell you that, but we are preparing transition binders. That's our responsibility,'" Redford recalled.

She said she signed off on a couple of orders, thanked her team, walked out, dissolved the legislature and hit the hustings.

The Tories started the election from behind, reeling from scandals over health care and a legislature committee getting paid handsomely for not meeting at all.

Four weeks later, on April 23, a bone-tired Redford sat with 10 other aides and friends in a suite in Calgary's Westin Hotel to watch the results come in.

The key battleground of Calgary went mainly Tory

Premier Alison Redford, in her office at the Legislature, keenly recalls the moment she learned of her election victory, with her husband, Glen Jermy, and daughter, Sarah, at her side. "She pulled me aside and (whispered), 'Mommy, I'm very proud of you.' And I started crying. That was my first official congratulations." JASON FRANSON/THE CANADIAN PRESS and, provincewide, Redford's team captured 61 seats to 17 for the Wildrose.

Observers are split on whether Albertans voted Tory or ran from the Wildrose, a fellow right-centre party, but one that stresses fiscal austerity, balanced budgets and limited government.

The Wildrose slipped on the racist, homophobic views of a couple of candidates and vacillated on climate change, saying the science isn't settled.

"I think we had a few self-inflicted wounds," Wildrose Leader Danielle Smith told supporters while conceding defeat on election night.

In the months that followed, Redford could say the same thing.

Smith promised effective opposition and in last fall's legislature sitting, her caucus delivered a devastating day in, day out attack on the Tories.

As the crises mounted in the fall sitting, Redford's team hit the bunker. Over the Christmas holidays, sweeping changes came to her communications office.

As the new year dawned, the team unwrapped Alison 2.0. She became the champion of the Keystone XL pipeline, the stateswoman jetting to Washington to lobby decision makers.

She relaxed with the media. When a new country radio station went on the air, she was the first to call in and request her favourite song (Brad Paisley's Welcome to the Future).

She didn't clean house, but she did tidy it up.

Deputy Premier Thomas Lukaszuk, dismissed as a chihuahua attack dog with no portfolio power base, was handed the advanced education remit.

Every feel-good government announcement has the premier sliding in. She was at the podium when they announced a new contract for teachers, a new deal for doctors, a new framework with the Métis, a new social policy framework and so on.

The Wildrose bark still has bite, but the Tories are off the ropes. THE CANADIAN PRESS

U of A. Students fear hike in non-instructional fees

Petros Kusmu METRO FILE

Tuition may be frozen, but Edmonton students are worried potential increases in non-instructional fees will mean they'll be paying more for less next school year, like their counterparts in Calgary.

While officials re-announced a provincewide tuition freeze on Thursday, both Mount Royal University and the University of Calgary are increasing service fees for students.

Petros Kusmu, the University of Alberta Students' Union's vice-president external, says he's concerned his school will do the same.

"While it's nice to see a tuition freeze in place, we're seeing schools increase fees, which makes the total cost of getting an education more expensive at the end of the day," Kusmu said on Sunday.

At the University of Calgary, service fees will rise to $450 per year in 2013-14, from $300. Mount Royal University students will have to pay a new $240-per-year fee next school year.

At Thursday's press conference, Advanced Education Minister Thomas Lukaszuk said he has urged administrators and students' unions to refrain from increasing non-instructional fees.

"We can only regulate tuition and inflationary costs of tuition," he said. "Non-curricular fees ... are not regulated by government of Alberta."

Other projects may hinge on arena deal

CRL. $320M in other city initiatives identified for levy funding

ryan.tumilty@metronews.ca

If the deal for a downtown arena fails to get finalized, $320 million in other downtown projects could go with it.

A report going to council this week identifies the other projects the city would fund with money from the proposed community revitalization levy (CRL) that is attached to the arena deal.

Among CRL-supported projects would be the upgrades to Jasper Avenue, a downtown park and upgrades to Churchill Square.

Coun. Amarjeet Sohi says some of the projects are important to creating a vibrant downtown.

"Some of these projects are critical, especially if we want to encourage more

An artist's rendering of the proposed downtown arena. The levy that will help pay for the project is also proposed to cover $320 million for other downtown projects. CONTRIBUTED

Shortfall

City councillors recently committed $45 million in provincial infrastructure grants to the project, but the funding model is still short $55 million.

people to live downtown. You have to have downtown amenities such as green spaces and the park," said Sohi.

Coun. Kerry Diotte says even with an arena deal, it is important to remember the CRL revenue would be unpredictable.

"It is not like a guaranteed cheque. It is still something of a gamble," he said.

The city has estimated the CRL would be worth an additional $612 million in property taxes to the city. Not all of that money is committed to projects, but both councillors say they don't favour putting any more into the arena to close the $55-million funding gap.

"My view is still that the other partner has not put in enough money. That is where I would look first," said Diotte.

Charges laid after officer-involved shooting

Edmonton police have charged four people in connection to an officer-involved shooting last week.

In a release issued Friday, police said officers responded to an armed-robbery call at a convenience store just before 4 a.m. Thursday. They then responded to a weapons complaint in the area of 96 Avenue and 180 Street around 5:45 a.m., which they believe was linked to the robbery.

When police arrived on scene, a chase ensued and shots were fired. Six people were taken into custody, including one with minor injuries as a result of a gunshot wound.

The Alberta Serious Incident Response Team, which

Splashy gun-registry events nixed in late 2012

Minister of Public Safety Vic Toews talks about the gun registry during a news conference in Ottawa in February of last year. Public servants spent a month last fall preparing two splashy announcements heralding the destruction of the long-gun registry data only to have the events cancelled at the last moment without explanation. ADRIAN WYLD/THE CANADIAN PRESS

No explanation. At last moment, major national events became 'a note under the door'

Public servants spent a full month, at the "urgent" request of Public Safety Minister Vic Toews, preparing two splashy announcements heralding the destruction of the long-gun registry data — only to have the events cancelled at the last moment without explanation.

The final deletion of millions of registry records last Oct. 31 could be seen as a crowning achievement for a Conservative government that had campaigned against the registry for over a decade. Instead, Toews confirmed the destruction during a closed-door meeting in Regina in a manner that one puzzled gun advocate likens to sliding "a note under the door."

As late as mid-afternoon on Oct. 29, less than 24 hours before the first media event, an email was circulated with fully developed plans for the two events attached. And then, nothing, not even a news release.

Questions about why the communications material was prepared but not delivered were ignored by Toews' office this week. THE CANADIAN PRESS

Toews: We can learn from Boston

Lessons can be learned by the explosions at the Boston Marathon, Canada's public safety minister said Sunday.

Canadian security forces are equipped and prepared to respond to these kinds of incidents, Vic Toews told CTV on Sunday.

One important lesson is that all levels of policing and government must work together in the event of a terrorist attack, Toews said.

"We can always learn from this type of horrific experience," Toews said. THE CANADIAN PRESS

War. Vets visit South Korea

JOE LOFARO
Metro in Ottawa

Ret. Cpl. Frank Smyth said he wasn't trying to be a hero when he tried relentlessly to join the army two weeks after his 17th birthday, only to be turned away due to his age.

"Even though I kept paying people with bottles of booze to change my records, I kept getting caught," the Korean war veteran told Metro during an interview Saturday. "Someone said, 'Well, why did you want to go?' It's because that's where all my buddies were going."

Smyth is one of 36 Korean War veterans flying to South Korea — some for the first time since the armistice was signed in 1953 — who were gathered in Vancouver ahead of the trip.

Smyth finally arrived in Korea to support his friends after the armistice as a military policeman patrolling the DMZ

Honouring our heroes

at night, hearing the unsettling clanking of enemy tanks beyond the border.

The DMZ will be the first visit for this delegation on Tuesday, and Smyth said it will be an emotional one for him.

"Some of these men will be even more emotional than me because they laid in the dirt and fired weapons and held them off in the battle of Kapyong," said Smyth. "These guys really put it on the line."

Serbia's ruling parties vow to back deal with Kosovo

Protests. Agreement triggers outrage among nationalists; hundreds demand ouster of government

Serbia's ruling parties pledged Sunday to support a landmark agreement to normalize relations with former province Kosovo that could end years of tensions and put both states on a path to European Union membership. Kosovo, considered by nationalists to be the medieval cradle of the Serbian state and religion, declared independence in 2008. Belgrade has pledged never to recognize the secession.

The EU brokered the tentative deal in Brussels on Friday in talks with the prime ministers of Serbia and Kosovo. The agreement would give Kosovo's ethnic Albanian leadership authority over rebel Kosovo Serbs. In return, the minority Serbs would get wide autonomy within Kosovo.

B.C. girl, 12, wants to be prime minister

Jennifer Johnson.

With a passion for politics, a B.C. preteen helps a provincial political campaign

While many 12-year-olds may be watching YouTube, texting friends or reading celebrity gossip magazines, British Col-

In an era when media, politicians and scholars bemoan the lack of youth involvement in political affairs, Johnson's interest is an anomaly.

Rehtaeh Parsons. Mother to discuss new law with the PM on Tuesday

The mother and stepfather of Rehtaeh Parsons are meeting with the prime minister Tuesday to discuss how to ensure the distribution of sexually explicit images without consent is treated as a criminal offence.

"The meeting is specifically revolving around one aspect. It's revolving around changes to the criminal code," Leah Parsons said in a telephone interview.

The teen attempted to hang herself on April 4 and was taken off life-support three days later.

Her family says she was sexually assaulted at a party and a sexually explicit photo was distributed.

Calls for the criminalization of the distribution of intimate images without consent have increased since the death of the 17-year-old Nova Scotian became public and created an outpouring of anger and grief.

Police said initially they couldn't prosecute due to insufficient evidence, but recently reopened the case.

Premier Darrell Dexter also said Sunday he will be meeting with the PM on Tuesday to discuss a change to the criminal code. He said Rehtaeh Parsons will be at the top of their agenda. "These kinds of changes are needed as a result of changes in technology," he said.

Harper reacted strongly to the Parsons case and said as a parent of a teenage daughter he found the story "sickening." He said it was time to stop using the term bullying to describe such incidents, saying they are often "youth criminal activity."

Son of Gadhafi plot?

Canadian Cyndy Vanier home from a Mexican prison

A Canadian woman who spent the past 18 months languishing in a Mexican prison has come home.

Cyndy Vanier arrived quietly at Pearson airport Saturday where she was greeted by family and friends.

Vanier, 52, was released Friday after a Mexican court upheld her appeal.

She has denied allegations of spear-heading a plot to smuggle the son of Moammar Gadhafi into Mexico.

The native of Mount Forest, Ont. declined to speak with reporters upon her arrival home.

Vanier has insisted her only connection to Libya was contract work she did for SNC Lavalin, a Montreal-based engineering giant with projects in that north African country. Prosecutors alleged she and at least three others conspired to sneak Al-Saadi Gadhafi into Mexico. THE CANADIAN PRESS

Boston suspects planned more attacks: Police

Marathon bombing.

Surviving brother awaits charges as mourners gather to remember the victims

Investigators believe that two brothers suspected in the Boston Marathon bombing were likely planning other attacks based on the cache of weapons uncovered, the city's police commissioner said Sunday.

As Boston-area residents came together in prayer and reflection, the surviving suspect in the bombing lay hospitalized under guard, apparently in no shape for interrogation.

What 19-year-old Dzhokhar Tsarnaev will say and when are unclear. He remained in serious condition two days after being pulled wounded from a boat in a backyard. The capture came at the end of a tense Friday that began with his brother, Tamerlan, dying in a gun battle with police.

There was no immediate word on when Tsarnaev might be charged and what those charges would be. The twin bombings killed three people and wounded more than 180.

Boston Police commissioner Ed Davis told CBS' Face the Nation that authorities found an arsenal of homemade explosives after Friday's gun battle between police and the two suspects.

"We have reason to believe, based upon the evidence that was found at that scene — the explosions, the explosive ordnance that was unexploded and the fire-power that they had — that they were going to attack other individuals," Davis said.

The scene of the gun battle was loaded with unexploded bombs, and authorities had to alert arriving officers to them and clear the scene, Davis said.

"This was as dangerous as it gets in urban policing," he said. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Military probing its handling of sex-assault complaints

The Department of National Defence is investigating its handling of sexual assault complaints involving a convicted former medical technician who is facing 31 new charges.

Complaints involving James Wilks were mishandled, says a lawyer for one of his victims.

Phillip Millar, who says he is also representing several other women who have come forward, alleges Wilks' chain of command knew of the complaints but did little to act on them.

A spokeswoman with the Canadian Forces National Investigation Service would only say it started looking into the matter last month "to determine if appropriate action was taken by the chain of command of ... James Wilks when staff was made aware of his actions in the workplace."

The final steps to closing the deal

Walk-through. A final inspection of the house you are going to buy is well worth the effort

LESLEY SCORGIE
For Metro

Your offer to purchase has been accepted and the bank has approved your mortgage loan.

But before you sign your mortgage documents and your lawyer advances the funds, it's important to have a final walk-through a few days before closing (realtor.ca recommends 48 hours prior).

A final walk-through is not a home inspection nor is it another opportunity to negotiate further with the seller or new-home builder. The primary purpose is to ensure the property is in the condition in which you agreed to purchase it.

When you arrive at the property with your realtor or new-home builder, it's critical you put all excitement aside and examine your home carefully and objectively.

Take your offer to purchase with you and review the list

When you arrive at the property, it's critical you put all excitement aside and examine your home carefully. JUPITERIMAGES/BRAND X PICTURES/THINKSTOCK of items you asked to remain. For example, if you negotiated to include the home electronic system and appliances, check that what remains is indeed what you negotiated for and that it hasn't been swapped with something else. On the flip side, if you had negotiated for items to be removed like debris from the yard, ensure that it's gone.

If your home inspector suggested repairs, maintainance or replacement of certain items, and you negotiated with the seller to complete those tasks, check that it's done. Test the following additional items:

- Turn on all lights and fixtures

- Run the appliances
- Run water from all faucets and check for leaks
- Flush toilets
- Open garage doors
- Inspect all doors, windows

Enlist the seller's help

- The seller can be of tremendous help in the final walk-through. If they are open to it, have them walk you through the home and explain how systems like heating, cooling or electronics work. However, it's important that you get some time alone without the seller so you can take time and objectively evaluate the condition of the property.

and floors

- Run the furnace and air conditioning unit
- If it's a new home, check to see that your list of selected finishings (floors, fixtures, and more) has been completed

If in the final walk-through you discover something materially wrong with the property (typically, it must be a few thousand dollars worth of damage), your lawyer and/or realtor will step in to negotiate and resolve the issues.

Though you are probably running around frantically trying to close your deal, don't miss your final walk-through. It's your last opportunity to ensure you are getting what you have paid for.

Once you have moved your things into the house, your first phone call should be to your insurance company.

JACK HOLLINGSWORTH/DIGITAL VISION/THINKSTOCK

To-do list as you move in

When I took possession of my inner-city condo in last June, I was surprised at how much work was involved in changing my address, setting up utilities and arranging for tax payments. So to ensure I didn't miss anything, I created a to-do list on my iPad that I carried with me until I had completed every item.

If you haven't already done so, once you have moved your things into the house, besides phoning the local pizza joint for delivery of your favourite pie, your first phone call should be to your insurance company. The insurance provider will lead you through a series of questions to understand the types of insurance that you will need and how much. Pay close attention to policy details and deductibles (the larger the deductible, the lower the annual premium). You can set up automatic payment for insurance monthly or annually.

Next, call your local utility provider and get your electric-

Phone ahead

- Changing your address can be done prior to the moving trucks arriving. Call your bank, utility companies, family, friends, Canada Revenue Agency, and more. For a fee of less than $100, Canada Post can put a mail forward notification on your old address, which will redirect your mail for a certain period of time.

al, heating and water services connected. Inquire about various payment options and select what suits your budget. For example, heating/cooling bills can sometimes be set to a budget program whereby the amount is the same each month regardless of the season and amount of gas you use. This can be helpful for new homeowners on a strict budget. But paying a variable amount each month may work better for others.

Internet, phone and cable will need to be set up if you use those services. Hunt around for the best deal — often it's cheaper when these services are bundled together.

Property taxes can typically be paid monthly or annually. By calling the appropriate department in your city, you can register for a property tax payment plan that will work best for your cash flow. Property taxes are calculated based on a percentage of the value of the property each year. So pay close attention to the property tax assessment that is mailed to you annually, and if you don't agree with the amount (valuation put on the home), you have the right to challenge it.

To best manage the operating costs associated with your home, establish a budget and stick to it. If you are stumped on how to prepare one, use templates from Mint.com, Google documents or your bank. LESLEY SCORGIE

After eight years at the top of an annual survey of the wealthiest people in Britain, steel magnate Lakshmi Mittal has conceded his place to Russian billionaire Alisher Usmanov.

'We are absolutely no Cyprus,' Slovenian PM says

Ticking clock. A recent report says the equity of state banks has been 'virtually wiped out'

Slovenian officials have a message for the world: Don't panic — we won't be the next to fall.

The tiny European Union member is trying to convince its people and foreign investors that it won't be the next in line for a banking-system collapse and a messy bailout.

"We are absolutely no Cyprus," says new Slovenian Prime Minister Alenka Bratusek.

ek. "We don't need help. All we need is time."

But time is running out for the Balkan state, once considered an East European success story and a model for how to build a post-communist economy. Some economists are skeptical they can live up to their promises.

Slovenia desperately needs fundamental reform of its banking and economic system if it is to avoid the same fate as Cyprus, which was forced to ask for a bailout when it could not afford to support its bloated banking sector.

Now the fear is Slovenia could face the same fate. The country is facing difficulties refinancing its debt. That has fueled fears that it could become the sixth eurozone nation to require assistance.

CITY STRONGER THAN SUM OF ITS PARTS

A friend of mine suggested that I was sounding a bit cranky lately and wondered if there was nothing positive I could say about Edmonton.

My crankiness comes not from the nature of our city, but from the way it's run. But point taken. So here is how I feel about the city that is my home.

I love the muscle of this city.

The thousands of men and women who saw, shingle, hammer, fabricate, weld, grind, stack, ship and store.

I like being able to fall asleep knowing that overnight store shelves will be restocked, milk will be delivered, bread will be made and I will want for nothing I need.

I love the commitment to Alberta of the thousands of men and women who toil away in our office towers to ensure that we get what we need when we need it.

Those who ensure our roads get built and bridges don't fall down.

Those who rise to the challenges of maintaining a health-care system.

Those who ensure our workplaces are safe and that women and children who need to escape brutality have someplace to go where no one will harm them.

I love the devotion of the men and women in our city who bring babies into the world. Who prep patients for transplants.

Who work in the dead of night to ensure there is another morning for those in their care. I love that they are there to comfort the afflicted when they truly need that comfort.

I love the brain of this city that is striving to find a cure for cancer, diabetes and a host of other ailments that plague the lives of many of our neighbours. I love the myriad students who every year go out into the world to make it a better place.

I love the talent of this city.

People are what make Edmonton thrive

I love the sense of connectedness here of those who are more than willing to extend an unpaid hand to help those in need.

Its writers, painters, poets and filmmakers who could practise their craft anywhere, but choose to do so here because they, too, love this city.

I love the sense of connectedness here of those who are more than willing to extend an unpaid hand to help those in need.

Those who volunteer their time to make our festivals a success.

And those who strive to help others by working bingos and casinos.

There are lots of things to love about this city and I do my best to embrace them all.

RE: BPA In Most Canadians' Urine, Effects Unknown, published April 17

In the piece, bisphenol A or BPA is identified as being found in plastic "food and beverage containers."

Within the context of beverage containers used to package bottled water and other non-alcoholic consumer beverages, this statement requires clarification.

BPA is not used in the production of PET plastic-based beverage containers, which have been in use by the Canadian beverage industry for more than 25 years.

According to Health Canada,

BPA is used to "make a hard, clear plastic known as polycarbonate, which is used in many consumer products, including reusable water bottles and baby bottles. It is also found in epoxy resins, which act as a protective lining on the inside of metal-based food and beverage cans."

Health Canada further states that "current research tells us the general public need not be concerned. In general, most Canadians are exposed to very low levels of bisphenol A, therefore, it does not pose a health risk."

Pop singer takes home hardware for her album and bubblegum hit

The 42nd Juno Awards dialled in on Carly Rae Jepsen, celebrating the cheerful singer/songwriter and her rollercoaster summer smash Call Me Maybe with three trophies that all came at the expense of the teen superstar who helped discover her: Justin Bieber.

Jepsen had the biggest haul of the weekend with marquee wins for single, album and pop album of the year — all categories in which the absent 19-year-old pop pinup/tabloid spectacle from Stratford, Ont., was also nominated — at a briskly paced Prairies party at the Brandt Centre.

The Mission, B.C., native seemed particularly stunned that her gold-selling DayGlo valentine to '80s pop Kiss triumphed in the biggest category of the evening, album of the year, over those multi-platinum efforts from Bieber and Celine Dion.

"I'm sorta speechless," she said, having thanked Bieber himself in a previous speech. "This is amazing. Thank you so much."

Seventy-eight-year-old Montreal troubadour Leonard Cohen also had a good weekend in the Saskatchewan capital, wresting his second Juno of the year — fifth of his career — for songwriter of the year after releasing his platinum-certified Old Ideas. The award was accepted by his son, singer Adam Cohen.

While Bieber might have been licking his wounds after another so-so night of Juno returns, he could be comforted with his fourth career Juno win, this time for the fan choice award.

Surely, if the Junos' voting bloc doesn't consider the recently troubled teen worthy of celebration, his droves of devotees still do — it's the third time they've carried him to that particular honour.

And Marianas Trench, the dramatic Vancouver pop outfit, won group of the year despite missing out on other nominations for their platinum concept record Ever After, while 27-year-old frontman Josh Ramsay also shared in the elation at Jepsen's single of the year win given his co-write of her Skittles-sweet smash.

With the gala's youthful bent, Serena Ryder actually seemed a grizzled veteran next to some of her newbie peers. She won adult alternative album of the year — her fourth career Juno — for her gold-certified Harmony and the husky-voiced singer/songwriter with the astonishing vocal range put in a roof-rattling performance of her propulsive recent hit Stompa.

Talking life:

Interview. Metro's special guests talk about fathers and sons, girls and Jada, Bieber and hip hop, and why Jaden won't party

ELISABETH BRAW

elisabeth.braw@metro.lu

"Will's here," says an assistant.

No kidding. His laugh — familiar from 100 episodes of Fresh Prince — booms across the Hollywood soundstage as he arrives to meet me.

Despite being the single biggest star on the planet, with a net worth of $200 million, Smith still comes off as happy-go-lucky — and happy to laugh at his own jokes.

His son, Jaden, follows behind, serious, yet gracious. A box-office draw in his own right, after The Karate Kid, the 14-year-old toplines their new film After Earth, set 1,000 years into the future.

In it, Jaden's character braves a planet overgrown by wild creatures to save his injured father, played by Smith.

In an intimate, hour-long chat, the two discussed working together, Jaden's musical style and the inevitable: life with mom.

That very week, Jada Pinkett Smith posted a Facebook missive, clarifying earlier statements about her and Will's "open relationship," calling it instead a "grown relationship."

Smith talked about that as best he could, given that his young son sat right there.

You guys work together, live together — but online, I see videos of Jaden skateboarding, talking about girls—

Jaden: Um-hmm. Um-hmm.

So I wondered—

Will: Wait. (To Jaden) You be talking about girls a whole lot?

Jaden: In interviews, Dad. About them. I'm not online, like, "Hey, girls, hello!" (Mimes taking a photo of himself) Tweet!

Will, how aware are you of what Jaden's doing?

Will: Not much at all. Not much at all. That's what I like him to think. (Laughs) I have a group of Men in Black that keep up pretty good.

Jaden: This is what I've realized: No matter what I do or how I do it, he knows 100 per cent of what's going on.

Will: (Laughs)

Jaden: There's no point in hiding anything because he knows. Whether he acts on it or not, he knows.

How do you know he knows?

Jaden: I just know that he knows (Both laugh).

Will: I heard Jaden's friend one time, they were sitting around, talking about something and I came in the room and said, "Hi" and walked out of the room and paused for a second and I hear the friend saying, "Dude, I'm telling you, he knows! He knows!" (Both laugh uproariously)

When was the last time you were punished, Jaden?

Will: We don't do punishment. The way that we deal with our kids is, they are responsible for their lives.

Our concept is, as young as possible, give them as much control over their lives as possible and the concept of punishment, our experience has been — it has a little too much of a negative quality. So when they do things — and you know, Jaden, he's done things — you can do anything you want as long as you can explain to me why that was the right thing to do for your life.

Jaden: It works pretty well.

But most teenagers aren't naturally introspective. Jaden, do you find that you ask yourself deep questions about your behaviour and acting accordingly?

Jaden: Yeah. Other teenagers go to parties and sometimes I be like, "Why am I here right now?" And most of the time, I just leave right then and there. Some things I don't like to do, that other teenagers do. Everyone thinks that since you make movies, you go to parties, and I like to party, but not normal teenage parties.

The second coming

"I mean, people are already telling me I look like him, that I talk and walk like him. If I rapped like him too, people would be like, 'Let's go on the Fresh Prince tour.'" Jaden Smith

Are you missing out on a good ol' fashioned American childhood?

Jaden: Not at all. I go out and skate every night. Hang out with people, skate, hang out with more people, skate to their house.

Will: (To Jaden) What do you see as the purpose and point? So you're not going out and partying — what's the purpose, what's the point, what are you doing?

Jaden: It's not like I don't want to go to parties because I need to study and go to college; I just don't wanna go. If they're gonna play house music, I'm maybe interested, but if it's some random place and they're playing Waka Flocka Flame...

You're anti-generic.

Jaden: Exactly.

Will, how and when did you and Jada decide Jaden could handle a full-fledged movie career?

Will: You can never be certain. You have an idea. You can feel your kids, but until the things in their lives start to unfold and the things they cause begin to have effects, you can never totally see. But we felt that because they were choosing a business that we were both successful in, then at a minimum, we could give good advice.

You used the phrase "they were choosing" but did they choose? Jaden, you were going to the red carpet when you were in diapers.

Jaden: It was not going to the red carpet so people could see us, it was going to the red carpet because we had free tickets.

Will: That's what our life was. The family has a movie so they're going.

Jaden: It started with, our mom is going to the red carpet, she doesn't want to leave us with somebody so she's going to bring us. Then it got to us walking. And then it got to us starring in movies.

Jaden, your music is trippy. It's far from Will's feel-good beats. Is that consciously your own thing?

Jaden: I mean, people are already telling me I look like him, that I talk and walk like him. If I rapped like him too, people would be like, 'Let's go on the Fresh Prince tour.'

Fresh Prince and Fresh Prince Jr. — I would go to that tour.

Jaden: I had to go way left with it because if I came out with a song with me and a bunch of girls in a car with sunglasses on (the Pacific Coast Highway) going, 'Yeah!' they'd go, 'That's the average thing to do.' Instead I came out with the video for The Coolest and people were like, 'Whoa! The camera's going upside down.'

Will, can you even connect to his music, at your age?

Will: At 14, his mind is so much deeper and more complex than my mind was at 14 years old. Lyrically, where he goes and what he creates and how the things are conceptually is beyond what I could create at 14 years old.

Or even later in your career. Miami is not telling a complex story.

Will: Right. Poetically, he's beyond where I ever go to with my music. My strength is ideas. And record structure. I knew how to make records in the way you get to the hook when the crowd wants it.

Jaden: That's what you're really good at. You could go anywhere and be like, "When I say hip, you say hop," and they'll all say it! If I go up there, I'll say, "Alright guys, I'm gonna read you a Shakespearean sonnet real quick, here I go." (Both laugh) The funniest part to me is the music, the old school sound of the music that I have in some of my songs is like what his old school beats used to sound like. It's just different. We're the opposite, but similar in some ways.

The DNA.

Will: That's my seed. Remember where you came from.

Jaden, would you produce Will's album?

Jaden: If you decided, like, "Alright Jaden, I'm serious, I want to make an album" —

Will: Oh, if I was serious?

Jaden: I mean, you have movies to make. Businesses you want to start. You're a busy man.

Will: I see how it is.

Jaden may be too big for you, Will.

Will: I know, I know. He's very serious and very focused and has a very rare combination of talent, desire, willingness and means. Which very, very rarely do those things come together and converge in the proper timing. So I'm excited to see what he decides to do with his life.

Jaden, what happens when you're 18 and Will kicks you out of the house.

Jaden: We'll probably work together till he retires and he probably won't retire.

Will: No we've been talking about, he's been thinking about becoming an emancipated minor.

Jaden: Just thoughts that pop into my head.

They made a movie about that — a girl divorced her parents.

Jaden: Really!

Rent that, get some tips.

Will: No, it's not like that. More the idea that, I want him to have as much command and freedom if he is willing to accept responsibility. Those are two concepts that are inexorably bound. So he's a very responsible young man so he's entitled to the maximum freedom. (To Jaden) I said "inexorably." You heard that? Someone Google that for Jaden.

Justin Bieber, who you're both friends with, has been in the press for some growing pains. Did you learn anything from his last six months?

Will: I talk to Justin once a week and Justin is suffering from immature adulthood in the media and surrounding world. Justin's not doing anything that a normal 19-year-old wouldn't want to do and wouldn't need to do to become a man. The transition from boyhood to manhood is a very difficult transition that he's handling on a world stage better than 95 per cent of the people who talk s— about him.

Bieber's on Twitter. Jaden, you're on Twitter. Will, what's up?

Jaden: He doesn't have one. Usually there'll be people who have a Twitter. He doesn't have one. He likes Facebook.

Will: I got 44 million people on Facebook. I'm just saying. I don't know how many people you got on Twitter.

Jaden: I knew you were going to say that.

Will: I'm just saying, I don't know how many people you got. How many people?

Jaden: Four million.

Will: Four million. Yeah. I got that after my first number.

Jaden: I feel like people on Facebook will just randomly follow just anybody.

Will: (Laughs hysterically)

Jada's on Facebook.

Will: Oh!

Jaden: Oh!

Will + Jaden: Ohhhhhh!

Will: Oh, Mommy be going in!

Jaden: My mom goes in on Facebook! She goes in!

Is she aware other people can read what she writes? (Both laugh loudly)

Jaden: She'll be like—

Will: She'll call a family meeting.

Will + Jaden: (Doing Jada impression) "I'm posting this on Facebook!"

Jaden: (continuing impression) "I don't care what people say. If we get hit for this, this is what the truth of the world is." Uh, OK mom. She'll be on the phone with a manager, "I don't care what they said, I'm posting this on Facebook." I think she should write a book.

Will: Jada is very serious and opinionated and she loves Facebook because it's the only place she's ever had where she's felt like all of her can be received. She's struggled her whole life where only a part of her is OK.

In her posts, she can take a generality and break it down into a truth. She posted recently about you having a "grown relationship."

Will: A "grown relationship." (Looks down.)

Anything to add?

Will: She put some serious, hardcore truth out there. (Pauses) And I think, the five minutes we have left, aren't gonna be enough to cover it.

OK, on to the Earth Day issue then?

Will: Yes! Earth Day! Please!

The future. 24/7 health monitors, no cars: how we'll live our lives in 30 years, when Jaden Smith is his father's age

WELCOME TO

BRAW

elisabeth.braw@metro.lu

Thirty years ago, in 1983, people didn't surf the Internet or talk on cellphones. There was no space tourism and supermarkets didn't stock their shelves with genetically engineered food. Now look 30 years into the future. You'll see yourself using performance-enhancing drugs, artificial limbs — and only speak to other humans infrequently.

"Evolution has come to an end," says Rohit Talwar, CEO of forecasting company Fast Future. "Physically, we humans are not developing anymore, so in the future we'll use all sorts of enhancement drugs to improve our abilities — for example, our cognition. Up to 90 per cent of university students already admit to using cognition-aiding substances."

In other words, we'll try to make ourselves smarter — and more successful in school and at work — by taking drugs. And we'll go about our smarter lives in better bodies. Futurists predict widespread use of artificial limbs, which may function even better than our natural ones. "And most of us will have the equivalent of an external hard drive," predicts Talwar. "Like computers, we'll have memory in the cloud. And this is already happening, since cellphones essentially function like our external hard drives."

Indeed, technology will define our lives to a degree unimaginable today. "You think cellphones dominate our lives today?" asks Dutch futurist Erwin Van Lun. "2043 will be incomparable! Cellphones won't even exist anymore. We'll have a world where every window is a cellphone and camera. People will communicate through these windows in a very natural way, asking it about everything from their bank account balance to philosophical questions."

But there's a darker side, too. "We'll essentially be bots," notes Josh Calder, founder of forecasting firm Foresight Alliance. "Artificial intelligence will regulate every aspect of our lives, including our social lives. Artificial systems will help us connect with others because they can tell us who's like us. Of course, that's what's already happening on some dating websites." The chance encounter, the love-at-first-sight romance will be history as human interaction is reduced to a minimum, a luxury even. And as humans become islands connected by AI systems, politics will be reduced to a micro-sphere — your neighbourhood — and the heaviest macro issues, like foreign policy.

Perhaps even more worryingly, AI will put us out of work. "Because AI will be so pervasive, a large part of the workforce won't be needed," predicts Calder. "There's nothing that isn't partially doable by a bot. In order to avoid mass poverty, governments will have to pay all these people a stipend. Of course, if humans want other humans to perform a task, they can choose that option, even if it costs more. And humans will find work assisting AI systems. For example, any human can say, 'I just saw a dog jumping through a hoop'. AI systems can't do that easily."

And, even as they're making us redundant in the workplace, AI systems will be watching over us. "You'll be monitored 24/7 by your phone and be told whether you're having health issues, like a heart attack," elaborates Talwar. "That will drive health-care costs down because preventative care is cheaper."

Of course, a country can choose to minimize the role of AI. But it will do so at its own peril, as other countries steam ahead to AI-assisted economic success. Of course, these scenarios may not happen at all. The world could run out of energy, or there may not be enough money.

But, futurists agree, AI is here to stay and run our lives. Being a servant to computers, using artificial limbs, depending on drugs for your mental output: what's the point of putting children into such a world?

"But by not having kids you're just giving up on the future, because then the future will just be populated by the progeny of the oblivious," reflects Calder. "And while there may be aspects of the future that seem alarming to us, they will seem normal to our children. Humans are very resilient."

Technology. 'In 2043, computers will speak the language of humans'

ERWIN
VAN LUN
Marketing Futurist
CEO/Founder Chatbots.org

Only 20 years ago, the Internet was opened to the public. Being the greatest innovation since the invention of the printing press, it has revolutionized the world. However, the revolution has just begun. In 2043, computers will speak the language of humans. They will no longer look like machines, but like real humans, the most natural interface ever introduced. These virtual humans will live in the cloud, not restricted to any "device." They will express emotions like humans, speak our language, even dialects, and understand our — often local — gestures. These AI characters will appear on floating, transparent camera screens, which will be as cheap as plastic bags today, and spread in all parts of the world, including the now-developing countries. Their incarnation, the humanoid robots, will assist us with many physical tasks. We'll work a lot less, maximum 15 hours per week, allowing us to focus on our core competence: being human.

THE FUTURE

Leisure. Why pay for airfare when you can walk the Grand Canyon at home?

L. CHRISTOPHER KENT
Co-Founder of futures consulting firm Foresight Alliance.

The leisure of 2043 will be immersive. Cheap storage and easy recording mean any experience can be captured and replayed or modified. So gamers will be able to play against “real” professional athletes and, instead of reality TV, viewers can experience living the life of their favourite star — premieres! parties! shopping! — through footage licensed for use by the celebrity. Readers will have the option of reading the story or participating as a character. The same holds true for movies and television. Traveltainment will be popular, especially if climate change premiums on airfare put flying out of reach for many consumers. Tourists can walk the Grand Canyon or visit the Antarctic glaciers in their homes. Leisure time will be extended in most cases by the use of drones, robots, and 3D printing, all of which allow for tremendous time and labour savings, though for the workers in some industries, this could be an unwelcome development.

Work. We'll be happy, thin and work 6 to 10 jobs in our long lifetimes

ROHIT TALWAR
Futurist professional speaker and CEO of the foresight research firm Fast Future Research.

Entire industries will be transformed by advances such as 4D printing that will enable us to print objects that can actually change their properties and behaviour over time. Service industries and professional work will be impacted by artificial intelligence. In this world, careers will be transformed. Increasingly we'll take the option of studying online for free on courses run by major providers such as

Harvard, with our coursework marked by AI programs. With life expectancy rising to 100 and beyond in developed economies, the idea of a career will change. We could easily have six to 10 careers over a working life that extends into our 90's. To cope in an intensely competitive world we'll use a variety of human enhancements to make us smarter, fitter and more effective. For example, we'll have bio-engineered body parts and exoskeletons and use smart drugs and electronic stimulus techniques. And advances in genetics have the potential to control conditions such as anger, stress and obesity.

WILL & JADEN

Metro's Special Guests take a look at what the world will be like in 2043, when Jaden is Will's age. The conclusion? An eerie resemblance to one of the latter Smith's earlier blockbuster films.

1 Mechanical arms?

Will: Yes, that's true. You can just have one for fun.

Jaden: I'd be one of those old school guys that's like, “No, all that new technology. I don't need one.”

Will: (In old man voice) “Newfangled technology. All these kids. People lived for thousands of years with no metal arms. Now every Tom, Dick and Harry got a new metal knee.”

2 Drugs that make you smarter?

Jaden: OK, I have a lot to say about this.

Will: Oh jeez.

Jaden: They've been storing information on DNA—they have made DNA—

Will: This is where we go too far.

Jaden: They have stored all of Shakespeare's sonnets on something this big (holds up small tape recorder). Now if they can put information into artificial DNA cells, then I feel they could apply that to our DNA in our brain and we'll be able to download things onto our bodies.

Will: That's deep.

3 Experts also say we become bots. Is this positive?

Will: Yes. All forward movement, even when it doesn't feel good, is positive.

Jaden: That's how I, Robot happened, just so you know.

Will: OK. Maybe he's right. Maybe it's not good.

Rob Stewart is worried about what the Earth will look like in 100 years. HANDOUT

Our survival on Earth 'is in jeopardy,' filmmaker says

Revolution. Toronto's Rob Stewart's latest film has humans in midst of another near extinction

scene@metronews.ca

To hear filmmaker Rob Stewart tell it, global events like today's Earth Day should be viewed more as grim reminders of the tough path ahead than as a celebration.

"We're in a really delicate situation right now where our survival is in jeopardy," says the director. "We've got to do something fast."

The dire straits Stewart describes take centre stage in the Toronto native's latest film, Revolution, which lays groundwork of humanity's survival plan for the next 100 years. "We follow life as a character through 3.5 billion years of evolution," he says. "Five mass extinctions almost wiped life off the face of the planet culminating with humans in the midst of another one of these extinctions." Escapist cinema this is not.

Stewart, a wildlife photographer turned environmental activist, recognizes that fear mongering isn't the way to draw people to your cause — appealing to their humanity is. "We've got to get an emotional reaction out of the public so that they care about it," he says. "We thought that following me around as a character would be a good way to do that."

The film opens with Stewart on press junkets promoting Sharkwater, his debut film about shark finning. During this period he realized that all his efforts to save sharks would be in vain if their entire eco-system were to collapse. From there he details the effects of ocean acidification as a result of over-consumption. By the time the credits roll, Stewart is knee-deep in the fervent activist movement coalescing around efforts to stop the destruction of the environment.

Never a fan of politics, Stewart nevertheless sees activism as the place where average Joes can make a difference. "If this was a spectator sport, we would have won already. But it's not. We're going down the tubes fast."

The list of problems facing our planet — climate change, ocean-acidification — and the factors that created this situation, roll off Stewart's tongue with ease. But he's not all doom and gloom; his optimistic outlook is palpable, making him an ideal spokesperson for the cause. Yet it's the younger generation who he's banking on.

"There's an opportunity for kids to become heroes for the eco-systems that we love. And I think this generation is going to make more heroes than ever before because we're engaging in the biggest battle humanity's ever been in," he says.

"It's going to be wicked to see what happens and it's going to call the best in humanity to the height of their potential."

Witherspoon and husband arrested after traffic stop

Oscar-winning actress Reese Witherspoon and her husband, talent agent Jim Toth, were arrested in Atlanta, Ga., this weekend after Toth was pulled over under suspicion of driving while intoxicated, police officials confirm to Variety.

Witherspoon was booked on a disorderly conduct charge after verbally sparring with police officers and disregarding their commands, according to the report.

"Mrs. Witherspoon began to hang out the window and say that she did not believe that I was a real police officer," according to the police report. "I told Mrs. Witherspoon to sit on her butt and be quiet. Mrs. Witherspoon asked, 'Do you know my name?' I answered, 'No, I don't need to know your name.' Mrs. Witherspoon stated, 'You're about to find out who I am. You are going to be on national news.' I advised Mrs. Witherspoon that was fine."

Both Witherspoon and Toth were jailed briefly early Sunday morning before being released.

Breakup or no breakup, Justin Bieber and Selena Gomez just can't seem to keep away from each other.

The Spring Breakers star reportedly headed to Norway late last week and arrived just in time to be waiting backstage after Bieber's Oslo concert, according to Us Weekly.

"They have a crazy connection," a source says. "They just can't seem to break their connection. It can be intense."

How intense? Bieber was recently spotted clutching his iPhone — which apparently has a recent photo of Gomez as its screen saver.

Bret Easton Ellis

GLAAD gets mad at Bret Easton Ellis over tweets

Gay rights media watchdog GLAAD threw a big party this weekend with its annual Media Awards, but not everyone was welcome, particularly author Bret Easton Ellis.

"As a gay man in a domestic partnership who plans to get married, I'm sad to hear I've been banned by GLAAD from attending (this year's) event. GLAAD is supposedly 'furious' about my tweets," he posted to Twitter Friday.

"After GLAAD banned me, they told the friend who was bringing me to the event to warn me not to go public or tweet about this decision."

Well, that clearly didn't work. Ellis has run afoul of the organization in the past with some of his more attention-grabbing remarks online, including saying watching the TV series Glee is like "stepping into a puddle of HIV."

Family brands you shouldn't wear proudly

IT'S ALL RELATIVE
Kathy Buckworth,
kathybuckworth.com

We all know that expression "there's no such thing as bad PR." Actually, there is. (Remember Michael Richards?) And bad public relations around your family can haunt you for years at a school, in a neighbourhood or during get-togethers with relatives. Some family branding and publicity should be avoided at all costs:

- Yelling Family: One of my personal favourites — the screeching mom, the angry teenagers, the loud bursts of a daddy baritone ... love these guys. They make the rest of us feel civil and proud. Yell on, fine people.

- Late Family: No matter what you are expecting them for — school, a wedding, a family gathering, a dinner party, or picking up your kid for hockey — these folks simply cannot arrive anywhere on time. You've tried, oh you've tried ... nothing works. This is their lifestyle.

- Disaster Family: This is the family who always manages to have at least one member fall sick or get injured on a vacation; routinely has something blow up, get wet, or collapse in their house; and has the best excuses for missing school concerts (the bulldozer drove through our basement), parent-teacher interviews (the water line to the fridge exploded in my face), or the last game of the hockey playoffs (the back tire just flew off as we drove down the highway). EXCERPTED FROM KATHY BUCKWORTH'S I AM SO THE BOSS OF YOU: AN 8 STEP GUIDE TO GIVING YOUR FAMILY "THE BUSINESS," PUBLISHED BY MCCLELLAND & STEWART, 2013, AVAILABLE AT BOOKSTORES EVERYWHERE.

Occasionally, mommy and her girlfriends decide it's time to delegate child care to the daddies and have a girls' night out. But things have definitely changed since those estrogen-charged nights of years past. ## Event planning.

Organizing an event that pleases both parents and kids can be done — we promise

NATALIE SHURE

Metro World News in New York

With her L.A.-based company Chic Events, Rachel Hollis has dreamed up parties for every occasion.

She's even managed to pick up tricks to help parents please crowds of all ages.

How can party planning be more manageable for people with small children?

Have courage; people are going to be so appreciative of anything you do! Go with your strengths. If you don't know how to cook, but make good cocktails, great! You can get the food from a local restaurant. Do the things you're good at. Give yourself wiggle room on things you're less familiar with.

How can parents involve their kids?

I like to keep them busy and out of my hair. I'll often say, "Go to the backyard and find three branches and two pretty flowers," and I'll incorporate those things into the decor. It becomes a game for them.

What is the most common party-planning mistake you've seen?

Many people don't give themselves enough time. Plan like a Boy Scout. Always be prepared.

Think of the event as two separate parties — one for adults and the other for kids. ISTOCK

Decoupage tree

Wall trees have become a popular trend in nursery decor. Try this project in lieu of a pricey vinyl decal. FROM PAM GINOCCHIO AND MELISA FLUHR, PROJECTNURSERY.COM

Materials

- Scrapbook paper (any size), about 20 sheets for a 6-foot tree
- Mod Podge
- matte finish
- Scissors
- 2-inch-wide paintbrush
- Ladder

Step 1

Take fabric swatches from baby's bedding to a crafts store, and grab a mix of printed and solid papers in that colour family.

Step 2

Start building the tree at the part of the trunk where the limbs begin to branch off. Cut or tear the paper, making each branch the thickness and length you want. Apply the Mod Podge to the back of each piece with the paintbrush, and press the scrap against the wall. With this glue, the piece will be movable at first.

Step 3

As the limbs reach out and up, tear the paper thinner, just like on a real tree. Create the tree trunk with various-size scraps of paper using a collage technique.

Step 4

Stack some of the leftover paper and cut out simple leaves. Cluster them along the branches. You can adorn the tree with birds, butterflies or even rhinestones.

Fabric mirror

Materials

- Fabric scraps
- Fabric stiffener
- aluminum foil
- Craft store
- mirror
- Cardboard
- String
- Super glue

Step 1

When you design a space for a little one, chances are you'll end up with leftover fabric. This project is a great way to use up those scraps. Lay the fabric on pieces of aluminum foil. Brush fabric stiffener onto the material and smooth out bubbles or wrinkles. Let dry completely, then peel off the foil.

Step 2

Sketch a lion or other animal onto a piece of paper and cut it out. Trace the shapes onto the back of the stiffened fabric. Cut out fabric shapes. The fabric stiffener will prevent the edges from unraveling.

Step 3

Cut a small scrap of cardboard smaller than the mirror. Punch two holes and tie a string through them. Glue the cardboard onto the back of the mirror. This will allow you to hang the fabric mirror when it's finished.

Step 4

Cut a large circle inside the lion's mane (or the face of your animal). Line up the mirror in the hole and glue it to the back of the fabric so the edges are hidden. Let everything dry completely, then hang.

Quick and savoury: Chorizo Kale Sauté with Beans

This savoury dish comes together very quickly and makes an ideal weeknight supper.

Kale is a nutritional powerhouse that's low in calories and high in fibre as well as vitamins A, C and K.

1. In a medium saucepan, bring water and salt to a boil.

Ingredients

- 250 ml (1 cup) water
- Pinch salt
- 50 ml (1/4 cup) pearl barley
- 350 g (3/4 lb) chorizo or Andouille sausage
- 8 sundried tomato halves, thinly sliced
- 2 garlic cloves, minced, or to taste
- 6 stalks kale
- 1 can (540 ml/19 oz) cannellini (white kidney) or Romano beans, drained
- Crushed red pepper, to taste (optional)

This recipe serves four. THE CANADIAN PRESS H/O

Add barley; return to a boil, then cover and reduce heat. Simmer for 40 minutes.

2. Heat non-stick skillet. Dice sausage and toss it into skillet, stirring to brown.

3. If dried tomatoes are very firm, soak for several minutes in warm water; drain and thinly slice. Add to skillet. Stir in garlic and sauté briefly.

4. Remove ribs from kale and thinly slice leaves. Add to skillet along with cooked barley and beans; cook until kale is slightly wilted. Sprinkle with crushed red pepper if you'd like more heat. THE CANADIAN PRESS/GOBARLEY.COM

While many places are now offering on-the-run breakfast, some choices are much better than others when it comes to nutrients.

Country Style Breakfast Bagel Deluxe

500 cal/ 14 g fat/ 1,410 mg sodium

The bagel, which has few nutrients, is more dense and higher in sodium than an English muffin. The eggs are not the guilty culprit here.

Equivalent

One Country Style Breakfast Bagel Deluxe is equal in calories to nine sunny side up eggs.

Country Style Breakfast Sandwich BLT

250 cal/ 12 g fat/ 420 mg sodium

The English muffin saves you the calories, fat and sodium so you can afford to add on an egg.

Snack. Yogurt Barley Fruit Scones

1. In a large bowl, mix together whole barley flour, sugar, baking powder and baking soda.

2. In a separate bowl, lightly beat egg and combine with yogurt and oil; stir into flour mixture along with dried fruit.

3. With lightly floured hands, gather dough into a ball and place it on a lightly greased baking sheet. Flatten into a round about 2 cm (3/4 inch) thick. Cut with a knife to divide into 6 scones. Spread apart on baking sheet.

4. Bake in a 190 C (375 F) oven for 20 to 25 minutes or until lightly browned and a cake tester inserted in the centre comes out clean. Serve warm. THE CANADIAN PRESS/GOBARLEY.COM

Ingredients

- 500 ml (2 cups) whole barley flour
- 30 ml (2 tbsp) granulated sugar
- 12 ml (2 1/2 tsp) baking powder
- 2 ml (1/2 tsp) baking soda
- 1 egg
- 250 ml (1 cup) extra thick (Greek-style) plain yogurt
- 15 ml (1 tbsp) canola oil
- 125 ml (1/2 cup) raisins or dried cranberries

Barley makes versatile loaf

Here are some ideas for serving this savoury loaf.

Cut slices of this bread in half and spread with 5 ml (1 tsp) honey Dijon mustard, small piece of smoked salmon and a sprig of fresh dill.

Spread slices with pâté and top with a small piece of sweet and sour pickle.

Serve with an herbed soft cheese such as Boursin, goat cheese or baked brie.

Ingredients

- 500 ml (2 cups) whole barley flour
- 250 ml (1 cup) all-purpose flour
- 5 ml (1 tsp) baking powder
- 2 ml (1/2 tsp) baking soda
- 15 ml (1 tbsp) chopped fresh parsley
- 5 ml (1 tsp) dried dill weed
- 2 ml (1/2 tsp) dried oregano
- 2 ml (1/2 tsp) dried basil
- 2 ml (1/2 tsp) dried thyme
- 2 ml (1/2 tsp) dried marjoram
- 2 ml (1/2 tsp) salt
- 50 ml (1/4 cup) canola oil
- 50 ml (1/4 cup) honey
- 2 eggs
- 250 ml (1 cup) yogurt
- 5 ml (1 tsp) sesame seeds

This recipe makes one loaf (about 18 slices) THE CANADIAN PRESS H/O

1. Lightly grease a 2-l (9-by-5-inch) loaf pan.

2. In a large bowl, combine the whole barley and all-purpose flour, baking powder and baking soda, parsley, dill, oregano, basil, thyme, marjoram and salt.

3. In a medium bowl, mix the canola oil and honey. Add eggs and beat well; stir in yogurt. Stir liquid ingredients into the flour mixture just until moistened. Spoon into loaf pan. Sprinkle sesame seeds on top.

4. Bake in a 180 C (350 F) oven for 40 minutes or until toothpick inserted comes out clean. Let cool in pan for 10 minutes. Remove from pan and let cool on rack.

ACT FOR THE PLANET

On April 22, more than six million Canadians will celebrate Earth Day by taking part in some type of event, project or activity. Some will join in a large public event, such as Victoria's Earth Walk, Edmonton's Earth Day Festival in Hawrelak Park, or the Waterways Clean-up in Oakville, Ont. Others will participate in smaller private events organized by schools, employee groups or community centres.

Much of the credit for galvanizing environmental awareness goes to Earth Day Canada (EDC), a national charity founded in 1990. EDC designs, delivers and co-ordinates dozens of programs, projects and activities across Canada. This, in turn, sensitizes Canadians to environmental issues and encourages them to take effective action. EDC's efforts have earned it a string of awards from such groups as the Canadian Network for Environmental Education and Communication, and the Washington-based North American Association for Environmental Education.

"The key to making progress on environmental issues is partnership," says EDC president Jed Goldberg. "We partner regularly with thousands of public and private-sector organizations across the country. Being part of a larger team inspires people to act."

Act for the Planet, EDC's primary campaign for 2013, focuses on encouraging both groups and individuals to take specific, practical steps to reduce energy consumption and promote sustainability. A calendar lists tips and links; a dedicated Facebook page offers daily challenges and community discussions. The campaign also provides teachers and students with information and support.

EDC's Eco-Kids program combines partnership with outreach and education. The program provides a wealth of resources — including lesson plans, activity sheets and other handouts — to teachers. Along with

CONSIDER THESE ACTIONS

Here are just a few tips from the Act for the Planet 30-Day Challenge Actions Calendar.

GET RID OF DRYER SHEETS — They are full of toxins, expensive and unnecessary — a few sprays from a bottle of water will eliminate static cling. Better yet, use a clothesline when the weather is nice or an indoor drying rack when it's not.

LITTERLESS LUNCHES — Invest in reusable containers, utensils, thermoses and cloth napkins for the whole family. Use your travel mug at the local café.

START A VEGETABLE GARDEN — Whether it's in a few containers on the balcony or in a section of the backyard, grow some of your produce own this summer. Tomatoes, cucumbers, basil and parsley are particularly easy to grow.

HAVE A BLACKOUT NIGHT — Eat a no-cook dinner (salads, nuts, cheeses, crackers) and spend the night telling stories and playing cards, board games and musical instruments. Keep the lights off and use candles.

BUY LOCAL AND ORGANIC PRODUCE — Locally grown fruits and vegetables are usually fresher than those that have travelled thousands of kilometres. Since produce loses its nutritive value over time, they are also better for you.

materials tailored to elementary school curricula, teachers and students can access stickers, temporary tattoos, bookmarks and posters; they can also create and share online profile pages of EcoKids schools, activities and accomplishments.

THE WAY WE GREEN EDMONTON'S ENVIRONMENTAL STRATEGIC PLAN

LEARN IT.
DISCUSS IT.
LIVE IT.

On this Earth Day, make a pledge to LIVE GREEN. Here are some tips:

At Home

- Reduce water use by installing low-flow showerheads and toilet(s).
- Use a high efficiency (HE) washer and dry your clothes on a rack or line.
- Plant a garden to enjoy fresh fruit and veggies.

At Work

- Use alternative modes of transportation: walking, biking or taking Edmonton Transit.
- Turn off your office lights and computer at the end of the work day.
- Pack your lunch and snacks in reusable containers.

At Play

- Reduce your carbon footprint by shopping, eating, dining or playing, locally.
- Bring your own refillable water bottle and coffee mug when out and about.
- Join Partner in Parks and tend a garden in one of our city's flower beds.

RECYCLE WITH STYLE AT VALUE VILLAGE

Shopping and donating at Value Village provides a great way for customers to reduce, reuse and recycle.

There are many ways consumers can make small changes in their daily habits in order to have a positive impact on the environment, from switching to energy-efficient light bulbs and eco-friendly cleaning products to carrying reusable shopping bags. What many don't realize is that one of the easiest ways to "go green" is by shopping thrift. When you shop at Value Village stores and donate reusable items to its non-profit partners, you are keeping goods out of landfills and giving pre-loved treasures a brand new life.

"We know that families across Canada are clearing out their clutter and getting organized with spring cleaning," says Tony Shumpert, vice-president of recycling operations for Value Village. "By donating these items, instead of simply throwing them away, you can give back to your community and save quality goods from polluting the Earth. In fact, Value Village operates one of the largest recycling programs in the world, saving more than 600 million pounds of goods from landfills last year alone."

So how does it work? Every Value Village location partners with a charitable organization in its community, including Alberta Association for Community Living, Canadian Diabetes Association and Cerebral Palsy Association in Alberta. All year round, each store pays its non-profit partner for every donated item, including clothing, housewares, books and more. Over the past 10 years, Value Village has purchased more than $1.5 billion of goods from its partners — turning otherwise unused items into sustainable funding that supports the non-profit's vital community programs and services.

The highest quality items are priced at a great value and displayed on Value Village's sales floors for purchase, while merchandise not suitable for resale is responsibly recycled.

Residents with clothing or household goods to donate can call participating non-profits for a home pickup or drop off their items at convenient Community Donation Centres located at every Value Village store.

VOLUNTEER CENTRES GET TRAINING

The federal government/Volunteer Canada partnership recently announced it is providing training to more than 120 volunteer centres.

“Our government is committed to the safety and security of all Canadians, including those who are most vulnerable — like children and the elderly,” said Minister of Public Safety Vic Toews. “Through the training provided in conjunction with Volunteer Canada and the volunteer screening handbook, our government is responding to a call from organizations to help them better screen volunteers and provide community service organizations invaluable tools to improve the safety and quality of programs whose volunteers and employees are in trusted positions.”

“Effective volunteer screening is vital to the health of Canada’s voluntary sector,” said Paula Speevak Sladowski, Volunteer Canada’s interim president and chief operating officer. “It helps organizations achieve better volunteer matching, improved safety and quality of programs, and reduced risks and liability. Volunteer Canada is very pleased to collaborate with the government of Canada on this initiative, and we are grateful for the commitment of our partners who have received the training — local volunteer centres and national non-profits alike.”

In October 2012, Public Safety Canada launched the Screening Handbook and partnered with Volunteer Canada to develop training materials and to offer “train the trainer” sessions based on the Screening Handbook for national, provincial and community volunteer organizations.

Through its training, Volunteer Canada has reached more than 700 community organizations and has made an outstanding contribution in helping to prevent abuse, and build safe and resilient communities. The Volunteer Canada training sessions were held in volunteer centres across Canada throughout February and March, and were designed to help organizations better screen volunteers.

Volunteer Canada’s commitment to providing leadership and resources across the country is supported by organizations such as Big Brothers Big Sisters and the Victorian Order of Nurses.

HOMeward TRUST RAISING AWARENESS

Together, Edmontonians can end homelessness. That is the hope of Homeward Trust Edmonton.

“Part of ending homelessness is a shift in thinking to entire community saying, ‘We can do that,’” says Susan McGee, CEO of Homeward Trust.

Homeward Trust uses a community-based approach with the goal of ending homelessness in Edmonton by co-ordinating support services, community research, increasing access to housing and by raising awareness.

McGee says the work done through Homeward Trust could not be done without the generous support of the volunteers who graciously donate their time towards helping those less fortunate in their own community.

One of these events that could not run without the support of nearly 400 volunteers is Homeless Connect — a biannual event that provides free essential services to homeless or at-risk individuals in one day, under one roof.

This event offers community members a different level of engagement, this time from a neighbour, or fellow Edmontonian, instead of a service provider, and creates a greater sense of community for everyone involved.

“It changes how the volunteer and the community member see each other and it breaks down some of the preconceptions people may have,” McGee says.

CLEAN UP EDMONTON

MAKE A DIFFERENCE WITH FIFTEEN TO CLEAN CHALLENGE

Fifteen minutes does not seem like a long time — time enough to run out and get a coffee, a quick phone call to a friend, or time wasted aimlessly surfing the web.

This spring, the city of Edmonton challenges you to take those 15 minutes and make a difference by taking part in the fourth annual Fifteen to Clean Challenge between April 22-28.

"Fifteen to Clean Challenge is a great opportunity for everyone to get out and help do a brief spring cleanup," says Don Belanger, program manager, Capital City Clean Up.

"This is also a wonderful micro-volunteer opportunity for anyone to do something to improve their community."

By picking up litter or reporting graffiti, Edmonton residents can do their part in keeping the city a great place to live.

"Edmontonians need to get involved with this spring cleanup initiative so we can all get out and enjoy the coming spring and summer days free of any litter or debris," Belanger says.

"It's a great way to bring your family, friends and co-workers together to help make a difference in the look of our community."

Starting April 18, pick up your free cleanup kits containing a garbage bag, glove and reporting instructions at any Edmonton Public Library and enter to win prizes. For further information, visit edmonton.ca or call 311.

TURN PASSION INTO A CAREER

AT RED RIVER COLLEGE

Take your volunteering to a whole new level at Red River College.

For those who love to be involved in the community by giving back and playing an active role through their volunteer work, the volunteer management certificate program at Red River College will give you the training to turn your passion into a career.

"Volunteers play an important role in the success of any organization," says Gail Mireau, program manager, community service and education at the school of continuing education at Red River College. "Someone needs to be leading these volunteers."

The volunteer management certificate trains students to manage and motivate groups of volunteers. The core courses include — recruitment and marketing, risk management, program planning and evaluation, interpersonal communication, and working with volunteers.

The volunteer management certificate is available through distance learning so students can enrol in this program from anywhere in Canada to earn their certificate. Practicums may also be completed outside of Winnipeg.

Graduates can go on to a number of exciting careers within a variety of different fields, such as sports organizations or in the health-care field.

This program is the only one like it in Canada and follows the Canadian Administrators of Volunteer Resources (CAVR) guidelines. The program is offered in partnership with Volunteer Manitoba, Manitoba Association of Volunteer Administration (MAVA), and can be used towards a CAVR designation.

Job interviews are stressful at the best of times, but when you are new to Canada and still figuring your way around, those interviews can be downright scary. A lack of confidence about Canadian culture and customs can make the interview process that much more challenging.

"To help with the jitters, practise your interview skills beforehand," advises Haris Blentic, manager of Dixon Hall Employment Services Centre in Toronto.

Dixon Hall is a community agency that offers mock interviews so job seekers can review their speaking skills, body language and approach to one of life's most stressful scenarios.

Check with your local employment office as more and more community agencies are offering mock interviews, says Blentic.

Here's your game plan:

Be on time

Arriving late gets you a low score before you have taken off your coat. Account for travel time. If you can, do a test run in advance. Plan to arrive 10 minutes early.

Prepare ahead

Do some research online (at the library or employment office) so you understand the job you are applying for and how to dress for success. If it's an office job, you'll need to wear the appropriate clothing.

If it's a warehouse job and casual clothes such as jeans are acceptable, it's still important to look tidy. If you're short on funds, there are or-

Open and engaged

Connect with the interviewer

- People often shake hands when meeting for the first time. Also, maintain eye contact and good posture during the interview. Your body language should convey confidence and trustworthiness.
- Your tone of voice should be strong. There's no need to be overly deferential or view yourself as a less-than. "Remember," says Blentic, "you're interviewing them as much as they are interviewing you."

ganizations that provide professional attire for men and women.

Try dressforsuccess.org and caregears.org.

Mute it

Turn off any electronic device that you carry. "I've seen it happen where a cell-phone rings and interrupts an interview," says Blentic. "That's never good form."

Make a list of your strengths and weaknesses ahead of time and be prepared to counter any weakness with a positive

For example, if you don't know how to work with a certain software program, tell the interviewer that you are a quick study. If you are still struggling with English (and don't need to be fluent for the job), be sure to say you are taking English language lessons.

Accentuate answers with examples

"The more concrete examples you provide the better you look," says Blentic. Instead of saying you did blood work in a medical lab, say you have experience drawing blood, labeling samples and that you worked for a lab for several years.

The great web of work

- Career Bear is Canada's premier source for people who want a new career but aren't sure where to start.
- Visitors to the website can browse careers by industry, salary, outlook or alphabetical listing and find job profiles, quick career facts and training programs near them.

Don't be too shy: Some newcomers struggle with their self-confidence and tend to give yes or no answers. Elaborate and provide specific examples.

hemoth BuzzFeed.com seem to understand that.

A job listing for support specialist at BuzzFeed takes an unorthodox approach at vetting potential candidates.

Beyond the bread

Not just a connoisseur of condiments

- In addition to amazing sandwich making skills, candidates for BuzzFeed's support specialist position must possess superb communication skills, problem solving skills and of course a sense of humour.

To apply, BuzzFeed asks applicants:

"Instead of a cover letter, please send us instructions on how to make a peanut butter and jelly sandwich. Text, images, video ... the format for your PB&J tutorial is up to you, as long as following your instructions results in a really delicious sandwich."

"One of the main responsibilities for the support specialist will be creating documentation and FAQs for our editing tools," Alice DuBois, BuzzFeed product lead for editorial tools, said in an email to Metro.

"We're interested in getting a sense of applicants' communication style. So instead of a cover letter, which tend to be generic and forgettable, we're asking people to demonstrate a skill they'll have to use in the job."

Applicants will still have to submit resumés and interview for the position, though Chris Johanesen, BuzzFeed VP of product, had the idea to conduct one of the interviews over GChat, since the support specialist will spend a lot of time helping people via instant messages.

Do the home base hustle. Sure you might make your bucks from bed, but if you choose to snooze, you lose

JULIA WEST

Working from home sounds like a dream, but the reality is that it requires a lot of skills. To work from home you must be self-disciplined and able to manage time, but there are many other characteristics that come with being a successful at-home worker.

Distinguish work time and play time

"You must make personal time off-limits for work as much as possible," says Sabina Ptacin, co-founder of the on-line business community Tin Shingle.

"This could mean no laptops in the bedroom or no calls during dinner. Try to be a realistic business and know when to turn off and on."

Don't forget, it's still work

When you work according to your own schedule, deadlines can be tighter and resources may be harder to find. You have to treat work like work, regardless of what else is going on.

NHL. Anaheim snaps 4-game losing streak against Edmonton

The Edmonton Oilers will miss the playoffs for a seventh consecutive season after losing 3-1 on Sunday to the Anaheim Ducks.

Cam Fowler, Kyle Palmieri and Corey Perry scored for the Ducks (28-11-6), who snapped a four-game losing skid.

The Ducks can clinch the Pacific Division title with another win over the Oilers in the rematch in Edmonton on Monday.

Taylor Hall scored in response for the Oilers (17-20-7), who have lost seven of their last eight games.

The Oilers had a quick start to the game, scoring exactly one minute in. Hall notched his 15th of the year as he came in off the boards to beat Ducks starter Jonas Hiller between the legs with a wrist shot from the right face-off dot.

The Ducks evened it up with just 1.1 seconds remaining in the opening period as

The Ducks went up 3-1 midway through the third when Ryan Getzlaf made a great move to walk around Smid and then sent a backhand pass in front for Perry, who had an easy tap-in for the goal.

Glenn Howard capped the curling season in style Sunday by hitting a clutch double takeout with his final shot to win the Players' Championship at the Mattamy Athletic Centre in Toronto.

Howard, from Coldwater, Ont., scored two in the final end for a 4-3 victory over Winnipeg's Mike McEwen in the final Grand Slam event of the season. Howard won all seven of his games against a field that included top domestic and international competition.

Djokovic masters Nadal in Monte Carlo

For the first time in nine years, the Monte Carlo Masters trophy belongs to someone other than Rafael Nadal.

The Spaniard's record reign at the clay-court tournament finally ended Sunday as he lost 6-2, 7-6 (1) to top-ranked Novak Djokovic in the final.

Nadal won his 46 previous matches and the last eight titles at Monte Carlo — beating Djokovic in last year's final — and his last defeat here was against Guillermo Coria 10 years ago. Nadal missed the 2004 tournament through injury before winning his first Monte Carlo title the following year.

Nadal then beat Roger Federer in the next three finals. His eight straight titles were an ATP record for one tournament.

"I cannot be happier than I am in this moment knowing what I've been through the whole week. Actually two weeks," said Djokovic, who twisted his ankle two weeks ago playing for Serbia against the United States.

"If somebody told me 10 days ago I'd be winning the trophy, I wouldn't think it's so realistic, to be honest."

Djokovic faced Nadal for the 16th time in a championship decider, and they are now 8-8 in finals. The Spaniard had won the previous three, including the French Open final last year.

"I think he played a little bit better than me, especially in the first set," Nadal said. "I felt that I was playing really well the second set and I was having more chances than him." THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Warriors forced to do battle minus Lee

The Golden State Warriors got a double dose of bad news Sunday.

They learned all-star forward David Lee had torn his right hip flexor, as feared, ending his season.

So, they'll have to continue their series against Denver without the NBA's leader in double-doubles.

Making that task all the more difficult will be the return of the Nuggets' top rebounder and energizer, Kenneth Faried, from an injured ankle.

Faried sat out the opener Saturday, when the Nuggets edged Golden State 97-95 despite getting out-rebounded 55-45.

MLB. Manager Gibbons confident in Jays' progress

This time the rally stuck.

One day after an 11th-inning defensive blunder spoiled a Toronto comeback, the Blue Jays reeled off six straight runs Sunday afternoon to down the New York Yankees 8-4 and avert a series sweep.

Toronto (8-11) heads off to Baltimore for three games and then to New York for four, thinking it may finally be heading down the right road after a wobbly start.

"We still have that feeling inside that we're close — to breaking out and getting everything going in the right direction," manager John Gibbons said.

"Baseball, since you do play every day, is a emotional roller coaster," he added. "So many ups and downs. We haven't really had that good feeling (yet). ... We've got a good ball club. We just think it's a matter of time. Maybe today's something that will get us going."

There were a lot of contributors to Sunday's win.

With Toronto trailing 4-2, Brett Lawrie doubled home two runs in a four-run sixth inning. J.P. Arencibia hit his seventh homer one inning later to keep the comeback cooking.

Adam Lind tied a club record with four consecutive walks, Melky Cabrera went 3-for-4 and Colby Rasmus went 2-for-3, driving in a run with a timely hit off a left-hander.

Munenori Kawasaki, in his first crack at leading off, scored and drove in a run in the first two innings.

And the Toronto bullpen — in the form of Brett Cecil (1-0), Esmil Rogers and Darren Oliver — delivered 3 2/3 innings of scoreless relief.

The Blue Jays opened the scoring for just the sixth time this season (it has won five of those games). It also marked the first time in eight games — an 8-4 win in Kansas City on April 17 — that it had scored more than four runs.

Horoscopes

Aries

March 21 - April 20

There is something you must do but you are not looking forward to it one little bit. Don't worry.

Taurus

April 21 - May 21

If you break the rules today others will judge you in a way that may not be fair, but you will only have yourself to blame. You know what is and is not permissible, so think before you act.

Gemini

May 22 - June 21

You may have got a rival right where you are in control of the situation ask yourself, do you really want to make them suffer? You've won already

Cancer

June 22 - July 23

You may be worried that a plan of some kind is not working out the way you expected but don't start changing things around just yet.

Leo

July 24 - Aug. 23

Is your sixth sense telling you that a loved one needs your help? Well it should be and if it isn't it means you are too wrapped up in your work to notice

Virgo

Aug. 24 - Sept. 23

It seems you have been letting your fears get the better of you and if you allow it to continue it will affect your mood all week long. Don't let it happen. The world is still pretty marvelous – and so are you.

Libra

Sept. 24 - Oct. 23

It seems you have been letting your fears get the better of you and if you allow it to continue it will affect your mood all week long. Don't let it happen.

Scorpio

Oct. 24 - Nov. 22

Your money problems may be worrying but they are not as bad as you think. In fact over the next few days there will be signs that you are over the worst.

Sagittarius

Nov. 23 - Dec. 21

You need to identify your most important goal and focus on it to the exclusion of everything else.

Capricorn

Dec. 22 - Jan. 20

You need to identify your most important goal and focus on it to the exclusion of everything else. Most of all though you need to stop worrying about what the future may bring.

Aquarius

Jan. 21 - Feb. 19

Do you do something worthwhile or do you do something purely for fun? That is the question you are struggling with but you can have it all you know. Make time in your life for the meaningful and the mundane.

Pisces

Feb. 20 - March 20

You must let other people know how you feel today. If you don't they may assume you have no feelings towards them at all, and that's a recipe for disaster.
